Prufrock Press, United States, 2005. Paperback. Book Condition: New. 281 x 217 mm. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Teachers seeking a way to provide added enrichment or extensions for their lessons will find this book a perfect match for their classroom. Filled with puzzling elements and open-ended questions for students to consider, Mind Stretchers provides students in grades 4-8 opportunities to engage in fun, challenging, and thought-provoking activities in subjects such as math, geography, history, and language arts. Many of the units have students engaging in investigating, writing, drawing, constructing, and composing. The focus of Mind Stretchers is on activities that build creative thinking skills and widen students perspectives beyond the correct response. For example, one activity, Which Would You Take, asks your students to leave a message in the wilderness telling other members of their camping party that they are fishing. The trick is that they don t have a pen or pencil, but they do have a coffee pot, matches, a canteen, a flashlight, and a hatchet. After describing how the different objects may be useful, your students are encouraged to sketch out their answer. The book is divided into three sections: notes to teachers, student problems, and a self-check. The subject-area-based activities in this book are self-paced. They are perfect for use by students working alone or in small groups.
